ABOUT OUR HOME SCHOOL AGREEMENT

Our home school agreement was created as an outcome of extensive consultation with parents. It is intended to support the partnership between school and family to give your children the best education we can, together.

The information following is important because it give details about the school's standards, ethos, behaviour policy and homework. Please don't hesitate to ask if you want to know more about any aspect of the Home School Agreement.

You will see that there is space to sign the agreement. This is to show a serious intent to try to keep to the principles. We hope that older pupils will want to sign following full discussion with their family, and only if parents are satisfied that they understand the intentions. For our younger children, talking about what's in the agreement, and how we want our school to be is sufficient.

Our Happy School

This was created through discussion with pupils. Classes set very simple classroom rules with their teacher each September using their own age-appropriate language. Our Happy School rules remain the basis for all our learning and behaviour expectations and is posted up around the school to remind us.

We come to school to learn and play.

We keep each other safe.

We are kind, thoughtful and caring.

We are respectful and polite.

We celebrate our achievements and differences.

Homework

The school's main homework is reading practice. This needs to be done regularly, daily if possible – little and often is best, say about 10 minutes. We also offer regular parent workshops to help explain how to make sure home reading practice supports the teaching of reading that we do every day in school.

Occasional other home learning activities will be given to link with topics or themes, work on spelling key words, or develop mathematical skills. These additional activities will be more frequent in KS1. We expect children to spend about one hour a week on home learning.

Behaviour and Discipline—Relationships Policy.

Many parents will have attended an induction meeting where our policy regarding behaviour and discipline has been explained. From time to time we run parent workshops to discuss our policy and the principles it is based on. We use Restorative Practice as our approach to managing behaviour and this is explained in the school's Relationships Policy, available on our website.

Library Books

If your child loses or damages a library book there is a cost of £5.00 per book to cover the cost of a replacement book.
